One teacher I remember, and why.	My dad, who taught me a lot in life.	Ms Oberoi who taught me that love can make changes happen.	George Irwin, who told me to dream big.	Prof. Brown, who developed my interest in chemistry.	My father, who taught me to feel proud of my work.
One most valuable work lesson, thus far.	Keep targets, pursue till you reach the goals.	Work hard, learn from mistakes.	Be a good listener and a good observer.	It is never too late to start something new.	Every day, there is a new lesson to be learnt.
One thing I look for the most in a new recruit.	Enthusiasm.	Keeness to perform and grow.	Humility.	An ability to chase dreams and passion to excel.	Passion and commitment.
One thought from a book that I am currently reading.	Aim – dream – work on it – achieve it.	Pursue your dream (stay hungry, stay foolish).	Be clear about your choices.	Embrace complexity and move towards coherence.	There are no short cuts, really.
One tip for time management.	Be organised.	Plan each activity.	Learn to say No (I don't know how to).	Never procrastinate.	Work out a schedule and stick to it.
One key thing in my fitness routine.	Gym, playing cricket.	One hour walk.	Work hard. Sleep well.	Regular exercise.	Running.
One signal that tells me there is a problem.	Uneasy feeling	Lack of communication.	Lack of clarity in thinking through an idea.	When people around you are not excited.	When I cannot describe a certain issue in one sentence.
One technique for handling anger.	Just stay calm.	Postpone the issue for 10 minutes.	Put off the immediate reaction.	Control your reaction as well as your words.	Keep off for a while.
One essential ingredient in my investment portfolio.	Gold bars, real estate.	Safety and returns.	I am a bad investor.	Stability and assurance.	What is that!
One good thing about the new generation.	Nothing is impossible.	Self-confidence and independence.	They are far smarter than we think.	They dare to dream.	I think they prioritize better.
One worrying thing about the young.	They do not know good or bad.	Lack of direction.	They are too much in a rush.	Lack of application and appreciation for the finer aspects of life.	Sometimes, they tend to be over-confident.
One thing that clinches a deal.	Complete dedication.	Faith of your customer.	Understanding the other side.	An offer that one cannot refuse.	Being a good listener.
One definition of values.	Honesty.	Honesty with sincerity.	Accepting life with humility.	Be honest to yourself and with others.	To be able to sleep peacefully.
One way that I use for resolving conflicts.	Smile.	Communicate, explain facts.	Talk it out.	Talk, talk and talk.	Just talk straight.
One favourite activity when travelling.	Listening to music, sight seeing.	Reading.	Writing songs on my BlackBerry.	Reading.	Humming old songs.
One indicator of performance.	Growth.	Visible data.	Results.	When your colleagues excel.	Steady stream of paragraphs on my desktop.
One macroeconomic variable I keenly watch.	Gold rates.	Sensex.	Government spending and accountability.	FII and FDI.	The government spending on NREGA.
One dream I'd like to chase, later in life.	Travel across the globe	Teaching.	Set up a rural newspaper (trying to).	Learn to play music or speak a foreign language.	To pursue music seriously.
One good way to foster innovation.	Dream and think	Encouragement.	Be a good listener of crazy ideas.	To let the team get the credit while the leader is ready to take the blame.	Just think out of the box.
One clue that tells me I'm the leader.	Taking up things people consider impossible.	Vision.	When people hear me in silence without my telling them to.	When I am able to appeal to people's emotions.	When people want me to listen to them.
